

WHAT POLITICIANS IN NEVADA SAY

Political Calendar

REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONS.
 Esmeralda county—At Blair, September 22.
 Humboldt county—At Lovelock, September 21.
 Lincoln county—At Caliente, September 17.
 Nye county—At Tonopah, September 21.
DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.
 Lincoln county—At Pioche, September 10.
 Nye county—At Tonopah, September 21.
 White Pine county—At Ely, September 16.

Registration.
 Registration of voters will close on Saturday, October 10.

"Nye county pays enormous salaries to county officers," says the Beatty Bullfrog Miner. "There is no good reason why the taxpayers should be milked quite so hard to fatten the politicians. The Republican county convention must go on record for a reduction of taxes and salaries if they hope to win. We need the money for roads."

Washoe county Democrats will hold a primary next Monday. Every indication is that there will be a hot old time.

There will be two Democratic county primaries and two Democratic county conventions in Esmeralda county. One election is led by Ben Rosenthal, the other by Ed Carver. The row will have a tendency to greatly strengthen the chance of the Socialist and Independence league.

Democrats in Nye county are as badly split as is the party in Esmeralda county. It is the Baker-McFadden crowd against the Cole faction.

Here is the line-up for county offices at the hands of the Democrats of Esmeralda: district attorney, R. L. Hubbard; A. H. Swallow; county clerk, Ed. Hardy; recorder, George Brodigan.

"The real issue in the coming campaign," says the Tonopah Miner, "is what is known as the state police bill and the attitude of the candidates toward its enforcement. For the active part he took in the passage of this bill our congressman, Hon. George A. Bartlett, has been made the butt of much fervid denunciation at the hands of those who seem to think that their rights and liberties are thereby interfered with and abridged. But in the face of this bitterness and the threat that he would lose the state, Mr. Bartlett reiterates his allegiance to and support of the measure, the enforcement of which has brought the industrial peace which now reigns in the place of turbulence and disorder."

A Chinaman registered in Reno the other day, and a dispatch sent out from that place says that he is the first that ever registered in the state to vote. This is hardly correct, says the Winnemucca Star. Four Chinese, native-born citizens, registered in Winnemucca and voted in the election. Three of them are now residents of that city and will vote at the coming election.

Here is what the Bullfrog Miner says about the recent Democratic state convention:

The State convention of the Democratic party of Nevada held this week in Tonopah was a notable gathering, characterized by much enthusiasm and a good deal of acrimony. The bones of contention were the state police bill and the election of county officers. The platform adopted was wise and rational and will commend itself to all fair-minded and thinking voters. The platform's utterances upon other matters are strong and patriotic. The ticket is made up of clean, honest, capable men. The Minor, who differed with Mr. Bartlett upon some of his policies, but we are not now going to hold any post-mortems, and the difference referred to will not prevent us from giving Mr. Bartlett the whole ticket our hearty support. We reserve the right, however, to make such criticisms from time to time as the interests of the party and the people would, in our judgment, seem to demand.

Dope From the Police Court

Proceedings of the Wednesday afternoon session of the city police court were short and right to the point, and Judge C. B. Diehl was not slow in giving his decisions. Roy Sherrill and Earl Young, two young men, who were arrested Tuesday by Officer Olson on the charge of stealing a razor from a place on Commercial street, had their case turned over to the juvenile court.

H. Bath, T. Bath and Thomas Wade, three young fellows arrested for fighting in the Utopia saloon on West Third Temple street, had the case against them sent for hearing today.

Daniel Campbell, better known in criminal circles as "Dynamite Dan," appeared before Judge Diehl to answer to the charge of stealing $10. Campbell pleaded guilty, and as he has been in the court a number of times previously for petty larceny, was given a sentence of seventy-five days in jail or a fine of $75.

A messenger boy of the Salt Lake Transfer company was sent out from the office to change a $10 bill, and Campbell, meeting and being acquainted with the boy, told him he would get it changed. The boy turned the money over to Campbell and the latter disappeared.

Jessie Ward and James Walker, who made Victoria alley the arena for a half-pulling contest the other day, were fined $5 each for disturbing the peace. The women are colored. After being arrested they made the jail corridors ring with heated words and threats. The two women were in separate cells, and could not get to fighting again, but their tongue fight lasted for a number of hours. The peace of the jail was disturbed as much as the peace of Victoria alley.

Carl Larson was fined $25 for speeding an automobile on State street.

Three cases of drunkenness were quickly disposed of by imposing a fine of $5 in each.

Seven of ten persons arrested for vagrancy were ordered from the town, while the remaining three were fined $10. Being unable to pay, they will wind shovels for the city for sixty days.

For Sprained Ankle.

A sprained ankle may be cured in about one-third the time usually required, by applying Chamberlain's Liniment freely, and giving it absolute rest. For sale by all druggists.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

The department of Law of the University of Utah offers two years of a full law course, and in connection with the School of Arts and Sciences, a four-year course in arts and law leading to the Bachelor's degree. The work done here is accepted by the best law schools in the United States.

Through special arrangement with judges and eminent attorneys, students enjoy unusual advantages.

The catalogue, which describes the courses offered, requirements of admission, cost of tuition, etc., is sent free upon request to the

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.

Salt Lake City, Utah

LAGOON REMAINS OPEN.

Until October 7. Dancing parties with special returning trains Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Louis Hook, harness store, removed to 41 South West Temple, opposite Salt Lake Livery & Transfer company.

BUBBLES FROM IDAHO'S POLITICAL POT

DATES OF CONVENTIONS.

Republican.
 Bannock county—At McCammon, October 3.
 Bear Lake county—At Montpelier, September 26.
 Blaine county—At Blackfoot, September 26.
 Boise county—At Roseberry, September 26.
 Bonanza county—At Nampa, September 17.
 Cassia county—At Burley, September 20.
 Custer county—At Challis, September 20.
 Fremont county—At St. Anthony, September 25.
 Lincoln county—At Shoshone, September 25.
 Lemhi county—At Salmon, September 25.
 Twin Falls county—At Twin Falls, September 22.
 Washington county—At Cambridge, September 17.

Democratic.
 Ada county—At Boise, September 20.
 Blaine county—Primary election, September 26. In several precincts, September 28.
 Boise county—At Van Wyck, September 28.
 Nez Perce county—At Lewis, September 16.
 Owyhee county—At St. Anthony, October.
 Lemhi county—At Salmon City, September 20.
 Twin Falls county—At Buhl, September 30.

Registrars of elections in Idaho will leave their offices open every Saturday from now until the last day preceding the election for the purpose of registering voters.

"Idaho is controlled politically by a machine," says the Coeur d'Alene Press. "Two years ago both of the leading parties had planks in their platforms favoring the direct primary. The Republican controlled the legislature, yet they refused to pass the direct primary law which they had promised the people. That was the result of the power of the machine, exerted because such a law meant the loss of the power of the machine. Some states have succeeded in freeing themselves from the machine."

Under the caption, "Idaho's Senatorial Autocrat," the Spokane Spokesman-Review says:

For his un-American and un-republican assault on the fundamental principle of representative government, Senator Heyburn should be sent into political retirement. What do you think the American people would do to Mr. Bryan or to Mr. Taft had either appeared before the party's national convention and expressed the doctrine that Senator Heyburn uttered when he said in his speech before the Idaho convention, "I have always opposed, as I do now, any platform which may show any attempt to subordinate the people. You are not empowered to make such a platform. You are here to recommend, not to pledge. If Bryan or Taft made that intolerable assault on the rights and liberties of the American people, the country would be plunged into a furor and the candidate announcing that doctrine would be beaten by a million votes. The national platform of the Republican party, from 1856 down to the present day, has been to subordinate the people to the rights of the people to form political parties for the high purpose of crystallizing our doctrines and principles into the law of the land. In pursuance of that purpose, candidates are nominated and pledged to their support. Strip a party of this principle and its conventions must degenerate into an assembly having no higher aspiration than to be the mere voice of some political boss. The Republican party of Idaho will suffer, and ought to suffer, for Senator Heyburn's impious and autocratic utterances, and for the fact that the State convention sat in meek silence under his assault on the rights and liberties of the people without the spirit that would call out one protesting voice."

Congressman French, who was defeated for re-nomination, is a firm believer in the direct primary law.

A delegate from Nez Perce to the Boise convention in an interview with the Lewiston Tribune says: "After the Nez Perce county delegation had been turned down on its request of Latah, that the latter support Hastings for Treasurer in return for Nez Perce giving Congressman French its support, the Nez Perce men got into action with such velocity that two prominent members of the Latah delegation hurried to Brady's headquarters and asked what to do. Brady replied: 'It is not air. Tell them to go to hell—stand pat.' It was not until after the ticket had been nominated that Latah men, sore over the defeat of French, told of the Nez Perce view and endeavored in a measure to thus hold him responsible for the attitude assumed by the Latah delegation. The fact that such a conference had been held seemed to clearly disclose that Brady was in a corner, and with the Latah delegation, despite the fact that he had given assurance that he was 'hands off' on all candidates. Had the statement made by Brady to the Latah delegation become known prior to the time the nominations had been made, he surely would have been defeated. The successful combination was after every man involved in the state, and it was powerful enough to get him."

"The Republicans passed a resolution favoring county local option," says the Coeur d'Alene Press. "In other words, it favors local option in which the country districts may vote the towns dry. As the towns have the saloons, they alone should say whether the evil will be prohibited in their midst, and Idaho now has a law that gives this authority to every town or city. If the people want the saloons abolished, all they have to do is to make an issue and elect councilmen who will refuse to grant licenses. As no law can be made effective without official backing as well as that of public sentiment, the more adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Idaho Falls Post thus pays its respects to the Boise Statesman. Says the Post:

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Idaho Falls Post thus pays its respects to the Boise Statesman. Says the Post:

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

The Statesman ostensibly supports the ticket, and states that James H. Brady will be elected Governor, which will be—but at the same time it knifes the ticket by harpooning Hastings and Lansdon. The Statesman has lost its political patronage of the State for a good many years, and there is no good reason why its adoption of local option would result in blind pigs with their debauchery and poisonous liquors of the cheap adulteration."

ance, for which there must be some cause explained to the public. In its efforts to establish dictatorial policy in the State, the Statesman has been a factor in a number of peculiar deals, and the time might arrive when it will need an investigation. In the meantime its attitude of belligerence toward Hastings and Lansdon cannot be explained unless it is caught in the act of trying to perpetuate its own graft. The Statesman has climbed up onto a little party pedestal, and by dishing out an unsavory mess of hogwash to the voters of the State imagines they will follow blindly in an effort to save it from its own blunder. It is a queer proposition that a publication attempts to stand for party principles in the State will so far exercise its petty grievance in the face of intelligent voters by feigning to add the ticket and at the same time endeavor to injure part of it. With clumsy effort it has picked out two individuals on the State ticket whom it does not like, and the circumstance of its likes or dislikes does not enter into the mind of the voters of the State, as the Statesman is too old at the process of political trickery to be accepted in good faith by the voters of the State, as the Statesman is too old at the brand that can be taken with Rochelle. It assumes to speak for the Republicans of the State, and under the present conditions it stands for about as much Republicanism as does the Police Gazette. The W. T. U. in attempting to play two of the objects of its displeasure, it has bared its own grievance, and that sort of a system will not work out when it is actuated by political spite.

UTAH SCHOOL OF MEDICINE.

The Utah School of Medicine is the medical department of the University of Utah.

Two years of a full medical course are offered, and in connection with the School of Arts and Sciences, a four-year college course in arts and medicine, leading to the Bachelor's degree, is given.

The work done in the Utah School of Medicine is accepted by the best medical schools of the United States. The various laboratories are well equipped for the work given, and afford excellent advantages to students. Send for catalogue which describes the various courses offered, the requirements for admission, cost of tuition, etc.

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.

Salt Lake City, Utah.

Century Printing Co.

Salt Lake City, 165-167 South West Temple. Best work at fair prices.

S. D. Evans.

Undertaker and Embalmer, has removed to new location, 48 South State.

Dr. Robert B. Brownfield.

Office removed to Suite 406 Judge building. Special attention to surgery and diseases of women. Equipped for X-ray and electrotherapeutics. Hours, 11 to 1 and 2 to 5. Bell phone 2449.

Removal Notice.

The Monroe Studio has moved to its new location, 38 1/2 West Third South street, opposite Greenwald Furniture company. All on ground floor. I will give my personal attention to all sittings in my new studio.

G. H. MONROE.

Grand opening ball in the Odeon, Thursday, September 10.

THIS SHOE AT

$3.50

In lace or button, plain or colored top, patent leather, kid or tan.

HARDING'S BOOT SHOP

277 Main St.

Next to Corner of Third South.

Massage Cream

After the summer's outing you find face, neck and arms need attention. Quick relief and relief of the skin. Cream has no equal. One trial will convince, and ever after it will always be on your toilet table. Both phones 457.

209 Main St., Kenyon Pharmacy.

GEO. T. BRICE DRUG CO.

MERCHANTS BANK

W. J. Halloran, Pres. E. Chandler, Cash.

COMMERCIAL BANKING.

SAVINGS DEPARTMENT.

211 Main Street.

W. S. McCORMICK, JOS. NELSON, President, Vice-President.

UTAH NATIONAL BANK

Salt Lake City, Utah.

Pays interest on Time Deposits.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

R. T. DALLER, THOS. R. CUTLER, Cashier, Vice-President.

R. G. JUN & CO.

THE MERCANTILE AGENCY.

GEORGE RUST, General Manager.

Idaho, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming.

Office 201 Tribune Bldg., Salt Lake City.

ESTABLISHED 1841. 169 OFFICES.

THE OLDEST AND LARGEST.

End-o'-the-week specials of great importance

Store opens at 8:30 every morning

Walker's

CORNER 3RD SO. AND MAIN

Phones—Independent, 27; Bell—EXCHANGE 23; call all departments.

Closes 6 p. m. week days—9:30 p. m. Saturdays

A remarkable lot of leather and elastic belts at way less than half-choice . . . 49c

They're worth $1.00 to $2.50 each.

Thursday only—one day—we will sell these beautiful belts at less than regular wholesale prices. The assortment is almost endless. Includes all kinds of leathers in plain and hand carved effects. Beautiful elastic belts in many beautiful designs. Fancy buckles that beggar description—some mounted with the new Indian luck stone. 50 dozen of them to select from at only 49c each. They're worth $1.00 to $2.50. On sale in center aisle.

The wondrous showing of new creations in fall millinery —is creating a sensation in this city. The exclusiveness of styles shown, the beauty and grace of the models and the reasonableness of prices have their due effect upon shoppers. Along the lines of the less expensive have we endeavored to surpass. The beautiful models we are showing at $5.00, $6.00, $8.00 and $10.00 are sensations in themselves—you'd expect to pay twice as much in nearly every instance. They're in the annex—first floor.

Thursdays only

Fifty pieces of light and medium color outing flannel, worth 8 1/2c the yard. Special Thursday only . . . 5c

St. Mary's wool blankets, size 70 by 80. White, gray and lawn. Splendid $8.00 quality. Thursday, pair . . . $5.00

Fifty dozen sample towels and table cloths, slightly soiled; worth 10c to $7.00. Choose at 5c to $3.50.

Girls' reefer coats, full lined, made of fine all wool worsted and serges. Plain and fancy designs. Ages 4 to 14 years. Worth to $12.00 each. Thursday . . . $4.95

Boys' all wool